Children's Librarian Martha Sanders says it's an exciting lesson in diversity.

"As children hear stories that feature characters from other parts of the world, and enjoy art projects inspired by people from around the world, it broadens their perspective and expands their global awareness," Sanders said.

Día is a nationally recognized initiative that emphasizes the importance of literacy for children of all cultural backgrounds. This year marks the 20th Anniversary of Día de los Niños.

The Buda Public Library started celebrating Día in 2012. Sanders says it's important for children to learn about other cultures and languages.

"Día at the Buda Public Library celebrates the importance of connecting children of all cultural backgrounds to the joy of learning through books and their library," said Sanders. We invite you to join us for an afternoon of fun, as we share stories and crafts from around the world."
